THIS is to certify that Mr. Wm. P. Jones has been for several years in the employment of my late hubband; I. B. Burbbayee; that he has, at periods, had entire charge of my said husband's business, when he was called away from the city, and that on all occasions we have ever found him honest and trustworthy to the greatest degree. In all cases we have ever found him structive to the interest of his employer. He is a kind sentleman, and entitled to the respect of all who he may have business with.

As Mr. Jones is to succeed to the Agency formerly carried on by my husband, I deem it just to furnish him with this recommendation from one who has known him for years, and who is well acquainted with his business qualifications.

P. S. This is to certify that William P. Jones, late agent of my husband, I. B. Burbbayge, is authorized by me to collect all debts due said agency.

Hold up the torch, O Brother's true, Sustained by warm fraternal feeling; As we that living faith renew, That e'er in good is self-revealing.

Let FRIENDREIP's honest tongue express.
The honest heart's slucere amotion;
And at this common shrine confess.
One aim, one duty, one devotion t

Let Love its hely flame outpour, Our souls with reader seal impressing: Till through its nieston, more and more, Our Order shall be deemed a blessing.

Let Taurn's white banner still be pure, Without a stain its folds e'er merring; Its presence shall our peace insure, And soothe the din of human jarring.

Hold high the to-ch! its radiance bright No lealous turbulence should smother: But may it blaze, a beacon light, To guide in safety every Brother.

Local News. See Local News on Second and Third Pages. Boarding-house Amus-ments—A Small Party Pays a Large Bill.

Boarding-houses are an institution, and although all have some qualities in common. such as tough meat, villainous coffee, hard bread, watery milk, a scolding landlady, a smoke-begrimed cook and a consumptive milliner-each has its own peculiarities by which it is as completely characterized as men are by the expression of their faces. A new phrase in the character of one of these establishments, located on Sycamore street, was developed before a magistrate in the lower part of the city a day or two ago, which is worth relating.

On Easter Monday, which is but a synonym for a day of rejoicing at the close of Lent, the keeper of the house in question concluded to give his lodgers, their friends and sweethearts a party, and to that end he provided some excellent music, for the purpose of enabling them the more pleasantly to while away the night by gliding over its voluptuous waves to the arms of the purple more. The hours went by, and song and dance made glad the hearts of those who participated in them, while whispered compliments and loving looks were resorted to by those who did not; and when supper was announced they left the parlors to ogle each other over almost empty tables, and smile at the assurance of those who waited upon them and persisted in calling the muddy liquid they were invited to drink, coffee.

But this revulsion of feeling was only a preconitory symptom of plague with which the male portion of the assembly were about to be attacked, and if they did not know the truth. it was only another proof of the principle that when the heart is happlest a sorrow is most near. After they had become thoroughly disgusted with the miserable stuff which had been offered them in the name of supper, they were invited into a back room and told that The movers in the affair asserted that they At this announcement some were indignant and swore, some smiled, and others curled their lips in contempt, while all were astonished and inwardly resolved never again to be sold in the same manner.

A young man, however, who unfortunately did not have quite enough money to satisfy the demand of the landlord, having very imprudently left his porte-monnais in the pocket of another garment, protested mildly at first, and aid how mean he thought the whole performance. This awakened the ire of the host, who, after some harsh words, struck the individual whose honest indignation had made him so bold. Being thus doubly provoked, the young man resented the assault, and would, no doubt. have succeeded in getting an equivalent for the amount he expected to pay for his evening's entertainment, but for the interference of some parties, who separated the combatants. The next day the poor fellow was arrested upon a warrant charging him with assault and battery, and, as we have said, was taken before a magistrate, who, however, discharged him, as the evidence plainly showed that he, instead of the assaulting, was the assaulted party. By this dodge, the latest of which we have heard, the house has lost caste, and even the pale milliner and the young man who sells tape on Fifth street, have expressed their determination to leave. From appearances, we do not doubt the landlord will wish he had footed his own bill, instead of so meanly fleecing his guests for that purpose.

CURIOUS AFFAIR IN COVINCTON-A KEN-TUCKIAN IN A QUANDABY .- There are some places in this country where every act of an unknown individual is supposed to have a direct tendency to assail an established institution, and, under certain circumstances, persons are not allowed, because of such suspicious, to dispose as they please of certain articles which they hold as property, or even of themselves. The truth of this assertion was verified a night or two ago, thus:

A gentleman named Thompson, from Scott County, Kentucky, was on his way to this city with a party of eight slaves, which he proposed to emancipate on his arrival here. Some of the authorities, however, either had, or thought they had, which is quite the same, some reason to believe they were fugitives, and refused to allow the gentleman to leave the city until after he had identified himself, which, in consequence of being an entire stranger, he was unable to do, and was, therefore, compelled to remain in the city during the night.

The gentleman was put to considerable trouble and annoyance at being thus thwarted in his plans, and all this without, as we have understood, a shadow of authority on the part of the officers. We have these facts from a responsible party who was cognizant of them, and merely now relate the story for the purpose of inquiring of our neighbors over the river if these things, which often occur without reaching the public ear, may not, by some means, be remedied.

EDITION OF PRESS.—In a short notice of the new Opera-House the other day, you seemed desirous of illustrating that "one fool makes many," by showing that the community were excited with regard to the Opera-House, and all running after or to it, when it was notorious that it had been built upon the liquor

If the editors first ran foolish after it, was it at the editors first ran foolish after it, was it not the reflex of public sentiment?—the very thing the news-paper tries every day to do. If the opera lover ran a little foolish by crowding in, should be be admonished to stop and moralize before making the place "fashionable" for zong, and ask whether the foundation of the edifice was paid for in Old Roarbon or of the edifice was paid for in Old Bourbon or Corn raw?

Must the church draw on the Pharisalcal closk, and refuse to preach to sinners where they will go, because the decorations of the auditorium are suggestive of Bacchus and Pinto, from the fact that the whisky trade furnished the money to pay for them?

Should the schools be denied the aplendor of an exhibition in a fashionable, large house, because their fathers are aware that the place has been made by a knowledge of the science of chemistry and the laws of trade? And would you have the Oddfellows cramp themselves into a smaller room, because it took more "Old Rye" to build this said hall, than it has any

Is it not unreasonable, sir, that you should find fault with fashion, for not reasoning in this matter? When was ever fashion reasona-Suppose the traffic, upon which the structure was reared, to be wrong, would you have fashion to pull away the gliding to see what is behind it? Sir, the thing is preposterous: the larguette is directed upon the costumed actor—not Mr. Smith, as he is called off the OPENING OF THE SHAKER MEETINGS .- The Shakers of Union Village, four miles from Lebanon, opened their house of worship to the public on Sunday last. The privilege of witnessing their peculiar mode of worship may continue for several weeks; or, as one of the Shakers remarked a day or two ago, so long as their visitors conducted themselves properly. They allow no rowdyism on their premises, and will admit none into their church but peaceable and quiet parties. Their service, or dancing, commences at ten o'clock every Sunday morn-

THE workingmen of the city have at length concluded to charge hereafter two prices for a day's work for any physician; and for all services rendered them of nights, from three to five prices, according to circumstances.

were of "no use," and a dead expense. The letter-writing penchant of American candidates is represented by the Chicago Press as being, to them, what the halter or the laudanum bottle is to the suicide.

The Ohio State Journal says: A correspondent writes us from Springfield that Mr. Hunt, of Clark County, had one hundred sheep killed, by worthless dogs, on the night of the 23d inst. The sheep were valued at $500. A young lady of Baltimore, whose curiosity to see criminals strangled, caused her to be a witness of the four men executed on the 8th, was seized with the idea that she would be hanged. She refused food and gradually sank till Wednesday, 20th, when she died.

An English paper states that at the late re-interment of the remains of Dr. Hunter in Westminster Abbey, the skull of Ben John-son, to which a small amount of red hair is still attached, was handed round for the in-spection of the company.

Volk, who was indicted at Columbus with Seibold and Fronenberger, for the murder of Korrell, was acquitted by the jury without leaving their seats. It was proven that Volk tried to prevent the murder, instead of being s The express train on the Steubenville and Indiana Railroad was thrown off the track, six miles east of Columbus, on Wednesday morning, owing to a culvert being washed away. Some of the passengers were slightly injured, and two cars broken to pieces. There is some talk of a prospect of a new ar-rangement between the Central and Eric roads, looking to a remunerative standard of rates. Those Railroad Superintendents must have precious little to do, beyond that of fooling the public and themselves with conventions, arrangements, etc. The jail of Coshocton Co. was set on fire by Bell and White, confined for the Treasury Robbery, sided by another prisoner named Smal-ley—the object being to effect their escape during the confusion that they knew would arise. The fire was extinguished, and they were made more secure. Mr. Charles Wilson, a musical professor of minence in Rochester, fell dead with a stroke of spoplexy, while in the office of the Democrat and American, in that city. His mother had died a day or two before, and Mr. Wilson was in the act of directing a paper, containing the obituary notice of her death, to a relative in Wisconsin.

Coolie Lagor.—A person writing from Barbadocs, says: The coolies are the cheapest and best laborers that could be introduced into and best laborers that could be introduced into these islands, and many thousands more of them are wanted. They work well, are easily and cheaply kept, never get intoxicated, and are at peace with themselves and others.

FATAL AFFRAY.—An altercation took place at San Jose, on the 29th, between two persons named Shores and Cosby, which resulted in the death of the latter. The District Court was in session, and a ball from a pistol in the hands of one of the parties struck a man named L. P. Ferguson, sitting in the Courthouse, in the right side, killing him instantly.

STILL IN JAIL .- Miss Turner, of New Haven, Conn., who was committed to jail (as re-ported in the Press about a month since,) for ported in the Press about a month since,) for refusing to bring up a child, to be delivered to its father, (a man she believed to be of doubtful reputation,) is still imprisoned. The New Haven Palladium testifies in very strong terms to the excellence of the character of the unfortunate prisoner, whose hope of relief must depend, not upon the law, but upon the temper of the Judge.
